

Remote identification of container contents by means of multiple radio frequency identification systems

Abstract

A method and apparatus for performing the remote identification of the contents of containers by means of multiple radio frequency identification systems.